Booksurge Publishing, United States, 2010. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 231 x 147 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Johann Brenner, an idealistic physician and ardent German nationalist, has joined the Nazi Party and willingly participated in its crimes against humanity. His Jewish boyhood friend, Philipp Stein, has also become a doctor. Their lives inevitably intersect until their last, fateful meeting. After the war, Brenner, now with stolen papers and a new name, has become a janitor in the courthouse where the Nuremberg Trials are being held. Hoping to heal himself and begin a new life with his estranged wife, he decides that he must write her a letter telling what he has done-and why. . .reveals the skein of forces that press on an ordinary life: professional ambitions; needs for esteem and belonging; the desire to emulate or obey those charismatic and self-certain figures who would shape us for their own ends; the anesthetizing affects of family crises; the self-serving construction of historical memory; and inattention to the best convictions of the good people who love us.powerful in the way it constructs this awareness and in the unexpected, haunting, and richly symbolic unfolding of its final moments. -- from the Foreword by E. Thomas Moran, Director, Institute for Ethics in Public Life, State University of New York at Plattsburgh This meticulously researched, brilliantly written novel about the descent into darkness of two friends, one a Nazi, the other a Jew--and both doctors in Hitler s Germany--will haunt readers of history and fiction alike. -- Margaret Lavinia Anderson, Professor of History, University of California / Berkeley Skopp s desire to fathom what can turn an ordinary man into a callous Nazi doctor leads him and the reader on a memorable trip through hell as we watch...
