THE CONTINUITY OF LITERATURE: PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESSES, 1922 (CLASSIC REPRINT) (PAPERBACK)

Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Continuity of Literature: Presidential Addresses, 1922 My feelings this afternoon would be ill-expressed if I did not find a few words to describe my pride and my pleasure in the honour you have done me by appointing me your President. I live far apart from your admirable activities, and I have never had the advantage of sharing your labours. I should therefore be frankly at a loss to know how you discovered me, did I not think the answer simply to be that you felt by instinct my sympathy in your work. So far, and so far only, can I dare to justify your choice. Your energy is all expended in spreading and in regulating the love of English Literature; and that has been my aim also all my life. Sixty years ago, furtively devouring Charles Lamb and Shelley in class-time, I became unconsciously dedicated to the religion of which you are the priesthood. In those dim years I was without a guide - without a star, as the poet says - merely by the magic of sweet music driven along a course which is now swept and rolled, elaborately mapped, and provided with sign-boards of all colours like the pathways in a German forest. Those of you who are engaged in teaching are much exercised about these rules and sign-boards. The report on The Teaching of English in England , which Mr. Fisher ordered and Sir Henry Newbolt has edited, testifies to your zeal, and also, you will forgive me for saying, your bewilderment. The subject is one of very grave importance and difficulty, but I want to say quite clearly, at the...
